Small Business

Virtually every Small Business has some requirement for ICT; whether as an occasional user of a PC or as a business highly dependent on its technology investment.

No matter where your business falls into this spectrum P&A can help you throughout the process in ensuring that you invest in the appropriate hardware, software, communications and support services.

Typically P&A would work with you to:

- Design a Technology Implementation which meets your business needs
- Draw up a requirement specification
- Arrange for quotations from appropriate suppliers
- Oversee implementation and provision of ongoing support services
- Arrange training as necessary

Individuals

Home users can be intensive users of ICT whether it is for:

- Business
- Study
- Recreation

Similar technology to that used in small business can also be employed in the home environment allowing:

- Networking
- Controlled internet access
- Sharing peripherals
- Connection with place of work
- Advanced Multi Media capability

P&A can provide support services to ensure the correct selection of hardware, software, services and help to configure all these items to ensure a safe and robust system.

Internet Technology

Internet Technology is not just about surfing the web. It can be the conduit for a number of different communications strategies:

- Web Sites
- Email
- Domain Names
- Online Learning
- Instant Messaging
- Home to Business links

P&A can help you make the most of what the Internet has to offer.
